Working with my team members has given me the big picture of what software engineering is all about. This project was an eye opener to what software engineering is in the real world. I must admit I have learnt a lot out of the course especially with how the process was conducted.

My role:

- Backend development of the project
- Organizing group members since we all had an agreement to meet at my hostel

My contributions:

- Setup boilerplate for authentication
- Added reset password
- Upload assignment file controller and route
- Finding a convenient place to hold meetings overnight
